

MODULES - COMPONENTS, MATERIALS & FINISHES

Rasters Cabinets is a modular cabinet system composed of open structural modules designed to be combined laterally, using eccentric fittings and custom-made nylon components, allowing configurations of up to four modules in different heights. When creating a cabinet, modules of different heights can be combined within the same composition.

The base module consists of an open box construction, without front or back enclosure in steamed beech wood. Side panels are made of lattice structures composed of solid beech slats, 7 mm thick, with square free openings of 23 x 23 mm. Top and bottom panels are made of 30 mm MDF veneered in steamed beech. All is water-based matte varnish finished.

The system does not include a back panel by default. Structural stability is ensured by accessories with back panels or by rear cross braces, which are mandatory every two modules when no back accessories are used. Steel feet with integrated levelling glides are included. Feet are powder-coated in matte black (RAL 9005).

Due to the shared side panel system, two module types are defined:
